ABOUT THE COLLECTION

Vinyl flooring with no fear of water

The catalogue holds 47 vinyl floors with prices from 16,95 €/m², VAT included. They fall into two types: click SPC (36 designs) with a rigid stone-polymer core and built-in underlay, laid floating with no adhesive, and glue-down LVT (11 designs), just 2–3 mm thick, bonded straight to a levelled subfloor. How the two behave in practice is covered in our article SPC or LVT vinyl.

Vinyl's headline strength is being 100 % waterproof, so it can go into kitchens, bathrooms and hallways where wooden floors are a gamble. The choice of looks is broad: 40 designs mimic wood, 7 stone, 8 come in XL format and 2 lay in a herringbone pattern. Some products carry usage class 23/33 — floors like that also stand up to busy commercial spaces. The catalogue's most popular designs are SPC Vigo, SPC Valencia Fish and SPC Havana.

Three things matter most when choosing: installation type, wear layer (around 0,5 mm on click SPC) and overall thickness. The easiest way to size the order is the m² calculator, and if you are still weighing types or designs, the floor finder narrows the choice in 5 questions. Before committing to the full amount you can order up to 3 free vinyl samples, and depending on the collection the floors carry a warranty of up to 25 years.

How to choose

Installation type: click or glue-down

Click SPC (~5–5,5 mm) with built-in underlay is laid floating with no adhesive — well within reach of a confident DIYer. Glue-down LVT (~2–3 mm) needs a levelled subfloor but adds minimal height, which is why it is often chosen for renovations.

Design and format

The catalogue holds 40 wood-look and 7 stone-look designs, 8 XL formats for larger spaces and 2 herringbone options. XL planks visually enlarge a room, while herringbone brings a parquet feel to moisture-proof zones.

Wear layer and usage class

The wear layer on click SPC designs reaches around 0,5 mm — enough for hard use at home and in commercial spaces. Some products carry usage class 23/33; you will find it in the individual product description.

Room and heating

Every vinyl floor in the catalogue is 100 % waterproof and suits underfloor heating. For kitchens and bathrooms it is the most practical of the wood-look floors — moisture leaves an SPC core untouched.
